TEN SPEED YOUNG READERS
AN IMPRINT OF TEN SPEED PRESS

Welcome to TEN SPEED YOUNG READERS

We started this imprint with one idea in mind: to make reading for parents and kids fun, never a chore or an assignment. And we decided to do this by offering books for a wide range of tastes and interests, publishing new voices to children's books as well as established names and beloved brands. We'd make them in the most beautiful or interesting ways possible, so every book would offer an experience that would give the readers a surprise, maybe a laugh, and always something to think about.

In these pages we hope you'll find something for every child, at every age and ability. Whether it's finding out about the basics of chess or mahjong, discovering how a log could actually be exciting, understanding that asking questions might lead to unexpected answers, or revisiting a classic story in a fresh way, we hope each book sparks something new and exciting in every reader who looks inside. Most of all, we hope each book gives readers an experience they'll want to come back to again and again, so they understand just how much of a joy reading can be.

I'm thrilled to share our list with you and look forward to hearing what you think!

Ginee Seo,
VP & Editorial Director

10YR MEET OUR TEAM

publishes bold and imaginative fiction and nonfiction with a distinctive aesthetic and fresh perspective, delivering stories that inspire and entertain, ranging from the provocative to the profound to the seriously fun. We are an imprint of Ten Speed Press, which is known as a distinguished destination for publishing beautifully designed books and for a highly collaborative style of working with authors and illustrators.

At the heart of the imprint is a seasoned, passionate team with years of experience in bringing extraordinary books into the world. Rooted in deep editorial insight and a shared love of craft, our group blends wide-ranging perspectives with a unified commitment to story and design. From shaping lists that resonate with readers to guiding projects from manuscript to finished book, our collective expertise ensures each title reflects thoughtful curation, creative excellence, and an enduring connection to the readers we serve. This is a team that knows the joy of discovering—and publishing—books that inspire, delight, and stay with you long after the last page.

Ginee Seo

As Vice President and Editorial Director of Ten Speed Young Readers, Ginee Seo champions picture books and illustrated fiction and nonfiction that resonate with both children and adults. A lifelong comics enthusiast, she gravitates toward humorous, risk-taking work that respects young readers and celebrates their diverse interests. She believes magic happens when a reader connects to words, and she has edited and published numerous award-winning and bestselling books.

Aaron Wehner

Aaron Wehner is Executive Vice President and Director of Business Development for the Crown Publishing Group, Publisher of Clarkson Potter

and Ten Speed Press, and launched Crown's children's imprint, Ten Speed Young Readers.

Windy Dorresteyn

As the Vice President and Deputy Publisher, Windy Dorresteyn plays a leadership role in list development and publication strategy and execution, working closely with the editorial, design, production, marketing and publicity, and sales teams. Windy has been an avid reader of children's literature since her youth, when she spent afternoons volunteering at her local library. She continues to enjoy everything from adventurous classics to imaginative tales, with a particular fondness for the occasional wonderfully odd book and heartfelt coming-of-age stories.

Kelly Barrales-Saylor

Kelly Barrales-Saylor is the Executive Editor at Ten Speed Young Readers, publishing

diverse and engaging books that captivate kids and the grown-ups who share stories with them. She has acquired and published numerous bestselling and award-winning titles. She is drawn to books that spark laughter, curiosity, and meaningful shared moments.

Ellen John

Ellen John is a Marketing Manager at Ten Speed Young Readers. With a background in graphic design, she is drawn to visually striking, thoughtfully crafted books. A lifelong lover of children's literature, she is passionate about connecting young readers—and the grown-ups who share stories with them—with books they'll treasure.

Emma Campion

Emma Campion is the Deputy Creative Director at Ten Speed Young Readers. She's passionate about creating beautiful, magical, and funny books for children and young readers. Emma enjoys collaborating with authors and illustrators, has a knack for pairing manuscripts with the perfect artist, and delights in the color, typography, and the thoughtful details that make a book special.

Adah Li

Assistant Editor Adah Li is passionate about joyful, heartfelt storytelling.

An avid fantasy reader and fairy tale lover, she is especially drawn to magical narratives that evoke a Studio Ghibli-like sense of wonder. She is building a list of imaginative fiction and nonfiction that strikes an emotional chord and delights young readers.

Jennifer Dee

Jennifer Dee is a Publicity Manager at Ten Speed Young Readers and has loved reading children's books since she was one. With a love for both the silly and the serious in children's lit, she approaches each book with thoughtful and detailed approach, and truly finds there is nothing more satisfying than getting books in the hands of kids.

Monica Cheng

Monica Cheng is a Senior Designer at Ten Speed Young Readers and a storyteller at heart. She approaches design with childlike wonder, silly humor, and a belief in meaningful connection. Her award-winning creative work has been widely featured, and she is passionate about nurturing artistic talent through the bookmaking process.

Kobi Yamada is a #1 New York Times bestselling author of inspirational books for readers of all ages, including What Do You Do with an Idea?

Charles Santoso is the creator of Happy Hippo and has illustrated many books, including Finding Muchness by Kobi Yamada and the New York Times bestseller Odder.

Others

A Story for All of Us

A universal story of kindness, compassion, and the importance of looking for the best in others by the #1 New York Times bestselling author of What Do You Do with an Idea?

Standing by the hedge that divides them, two children talk about what the people on the opposite side are like. They're not like us, one child insists. The other child wonders: How are they different?

Written with gentle humor and illustrated with spare, emotionally powerful pictures, Others is a thoughtful exploration of how our assumptions can prevent us from connection and a beautiful reminder that we are all human beings living together on this earth.

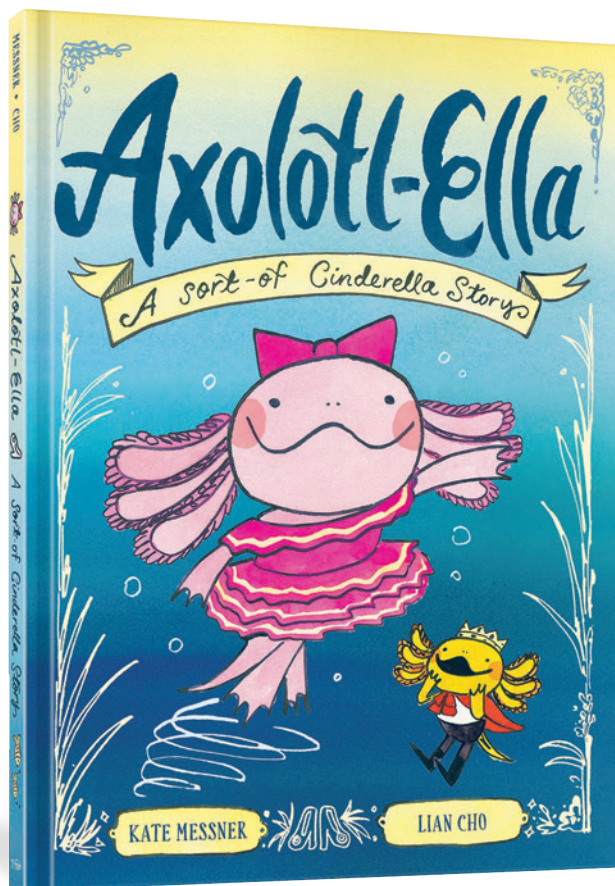

Educator's Guide Available

“Probing text, made up entirely of dialogue, pairs cleverly designed layouts for a compelling tale that suggests that it’s ignorance that truly divides us—and knowledge that unites us. A thoughtful storytime pick to get little ones asking big questions.”

Kate Messner has authored more than seventy books for children, including award-winning picture books and bestselling novels for older readers.

Lian Cho is an award-winning author-illustrator whose picture books include Oh, Olive! and the Society of Illustrators Silver Medal-winning Pig Town Party and Don't Eat Eustace.

Axolotl-Ella

A Sort-of Cinderella Story

Cinderella has never been so adorable—or amphibious!—as in this fractured fairy tale by New York Times bestselling author Kate Messner, with art by award-winning illustrator Lian Cho.

Axolotl-Ella is a quick and clever salamander with a daring, deliciously ambitious dream. All she needs to do to make her dream a reality is to meet the Prince at the King's Festival. So with a little bit of magic from the lake of the night, Ella makes her skin gleam and her gills glow—and conjures the perfect outfit for a fancy party!

But the Prince talks a lot, and the magic wears off at midnight. Can Axolotl-Ella find a way to make her dream come true, or will she be stuck at the murky lake with her annoying stepsisters forever?

Filled with funny details and amusing axolotl facts, Axolotl-Ella is destined to become a storytime favorite.

“With an irreverent, chart-your-own-course spirit, it’s a slippery, smart, and subversive story that wriggles free of most fairy tale expectations.”

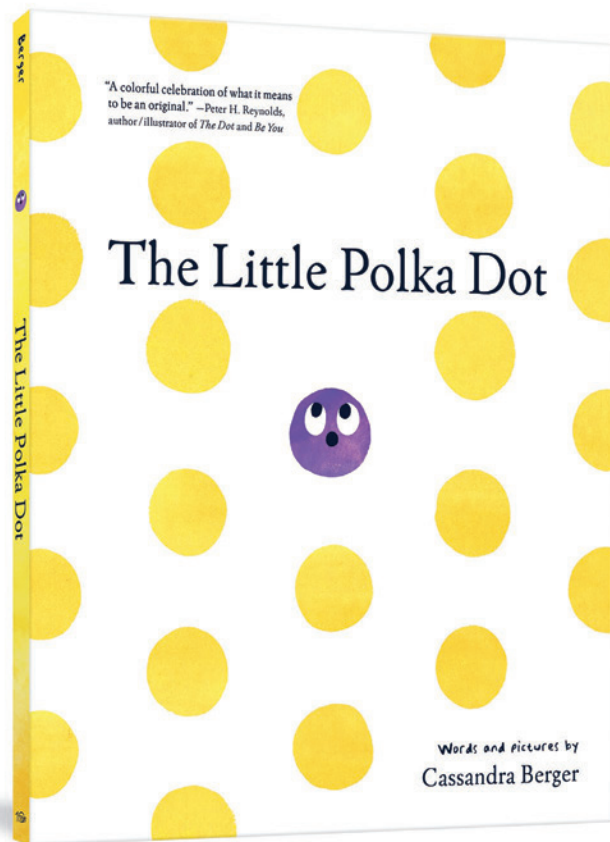

—Publishers Weekly

“A cheeky inverted fairy tale with a scientific bent and a feminist heart.”

Cassandra Berger is an author and illustrator with a background in animation and children's media. She teaches character design at her alma mater and lives in New York.

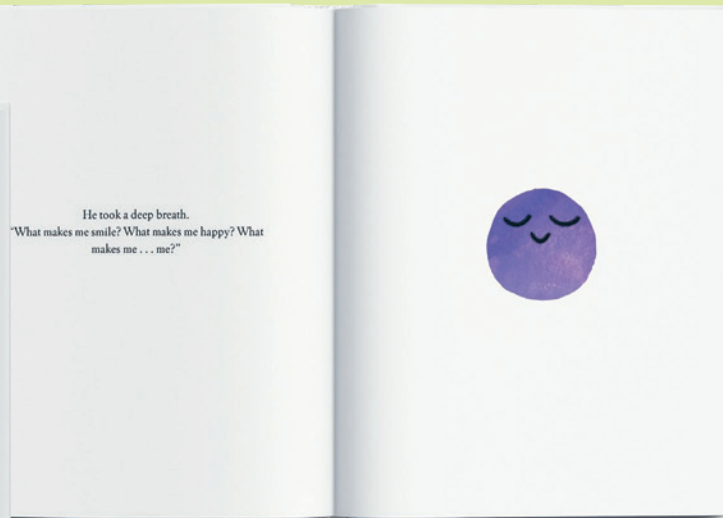

The Little Polka Dot

A simple and beautiful story of following your heart to break out of the pattern and become who you are truly meant to be.

Unlike the other polka dots, this special character takes the time to explore its own thoughts, feelings, wants, and needs. Through this introspective adventure, the polka dot transforms into a surprising new shape, inspiring others to embrace their individuality and follow their own paths.

Perfect for life's big moments, such as graduations and birthdays, this gorgeous picture book is a heartwarming tale that resonates with readers of all ages, celebrating the beauty of self-expression and the courage to be different.

“This inspiring and sweet tale about a little polka dot who asks, ‘What makes me . . . me?’ is full of visual treats and surprises. It’s one of those special books that’s written so young children can understand and be delighted by it, while still touching the hearts of the grown-ups who read it to them.”

—Laurie Berkner, award-winning and bestselling children’s musical artist and author

“A tender, uplifting story about courage, identity, and the joy of self-expression. . . . This timeless celebration of individuality and creativity will stay with readers long after the last page—a book that makes you smile, think, and want to read it all over again.”

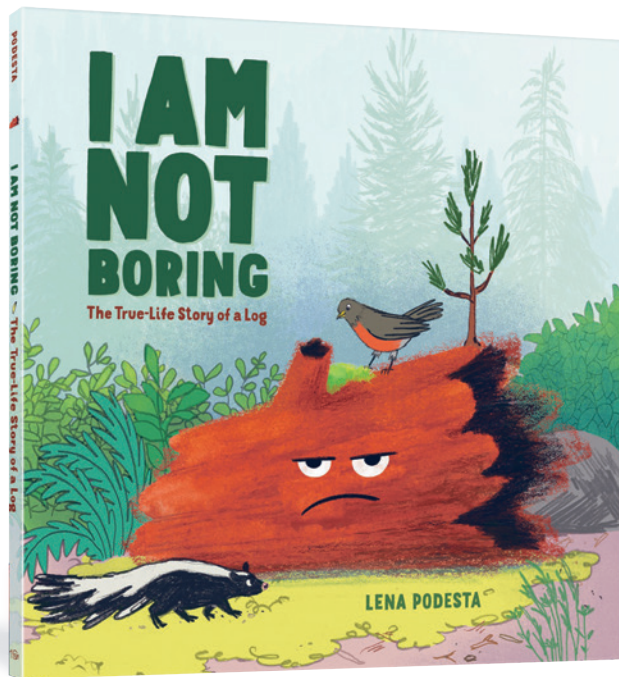

—Jennifer Oxley author/illustrator and co-creator of Peg + Cat

“Cassandra Berger has made her mark! The Little Polka Dot is a colorful celebration of what it means to be an original. After a challenging journey, our hero, Little Polka ‘connects the dots’ to his inner dot!”

—Peter H. Reynolds, author/illustrator of The Dot and Be You

“A heartfelt celebration of individuality and the magic that happens when we dare to be ourselves.”

—Aimée Sicuro, author/illustrator of If You Find a Leaf and If You Spot a Shell

Lena Podesta is an artist and author with more than twenty years of experience in animation and illustration for children. She can usually be found talking to logs.

I Am Not Boring

The True-Life Story of a Log

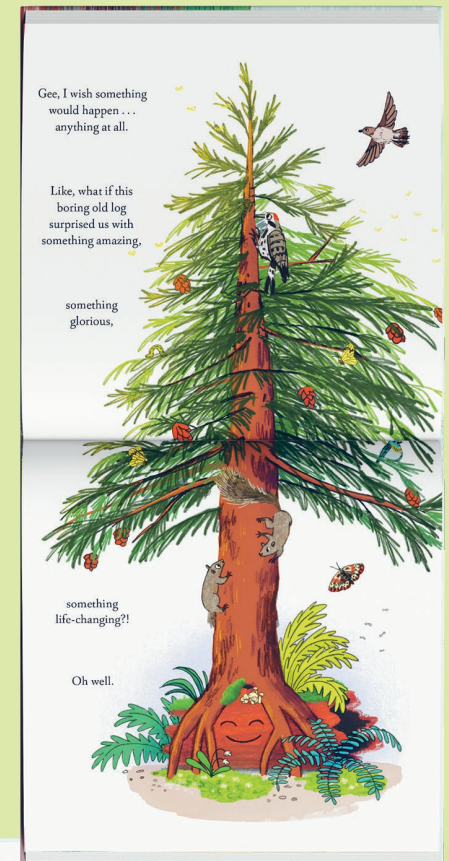

The funniest (and totally not boring) picture book about a log that has ever existed, full of scientific facts and delightfully silly storytelling.

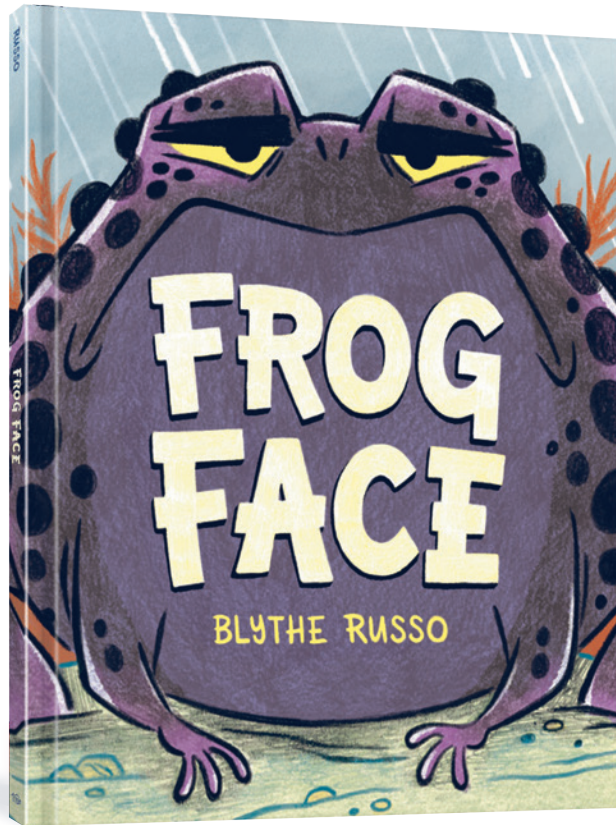

What’s so special about a log? It just sits there and does nothing. How boring! However, you may be surprised to learn that logs are anything but boring—they are an essential part of life in the forest. Logs provide shelter, become food, and even turn into a safe place for a new tree to grow.

Told with humor and heart, this endearing picture book will have readers giggling along, learning about the importance of ecosystems—and believing in themselves!

“An eye opener for readers who think that a log ‘doesn’t do anything but sit in a forest’ . . . The jauntily banter between the narrator and the log will elicit chuckles while offering a potentially eye-opening revelation: Even seemingly static environments are often teeming with life . . . Animated and informative.”

Frog Face

Frog was in a fantastic mood. She was happy!

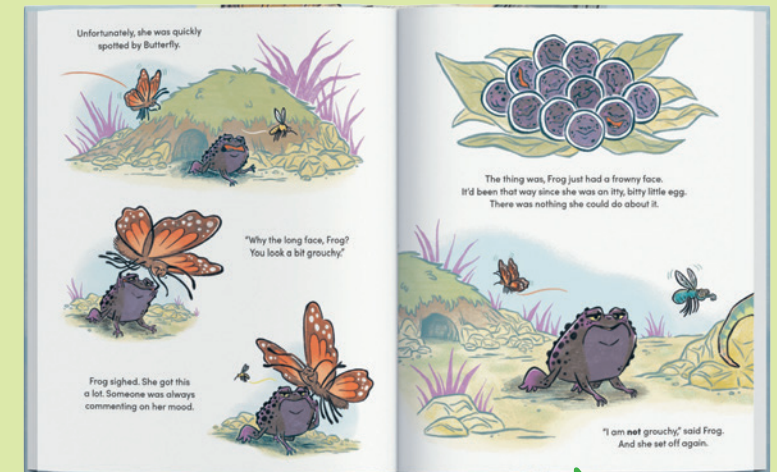

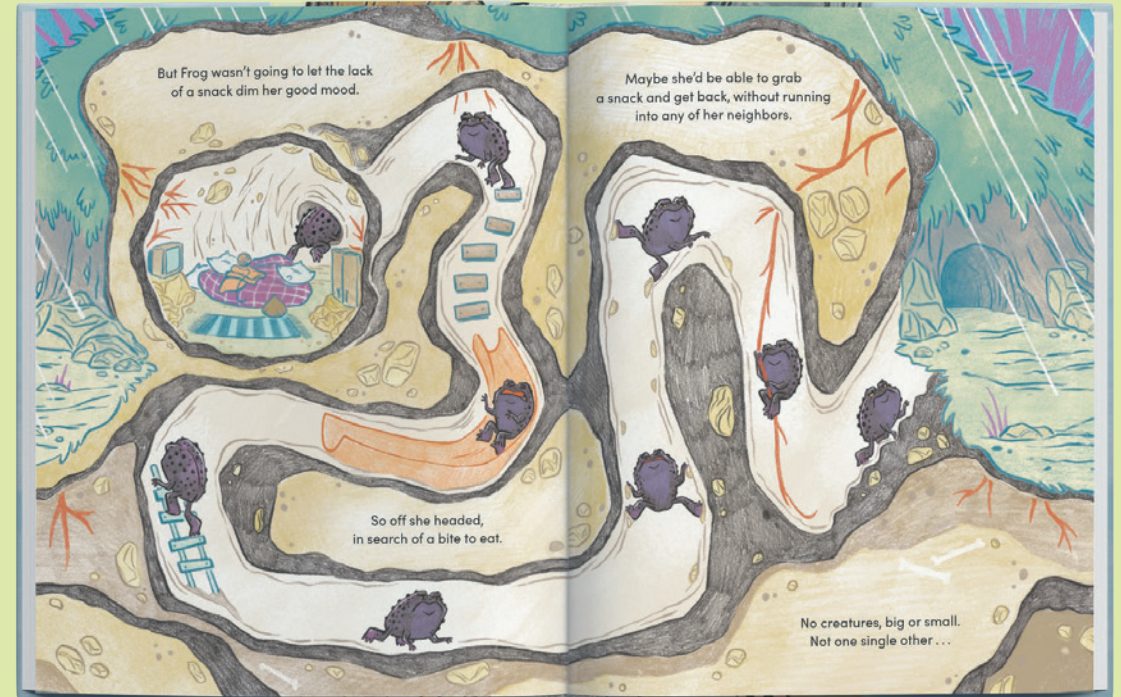

But nobody seemed to understand.

"You look a bit grouchy."

Frog sighed. She got this a lot. The thing was, Frog just had a frowny face. It'd been that way since she was an itty-bitty little egg.

The more her neighbors tell Frog to smile or ask her what's wrong, the more Frog's good mood disappears. Why won't everyone just leave her alone? But sometimes when we feel the most misunderstood, it is the best time for one good friend to see us for who we really are.

A heartwarming, humorous story that highlights the importance of authentic connection and celebrates all faces—smiley, frowny, upside-downy, and frog.

She's always had resting frog face.

NATIONAL PARKS SERIES

AMERICA'S NATIONAL PARKS are some of the most magical places in the world, and they're home to a diverse array of creatures, both well-known and more unusual.

Per Gustavsson is an award-winning illustrator and author. One of Sweden's most beloved picture book makers and illustrators, he has collaborated on more than 100 books. He also sits on the jury for the prestigious Astrid Lindgren Memorial Award.

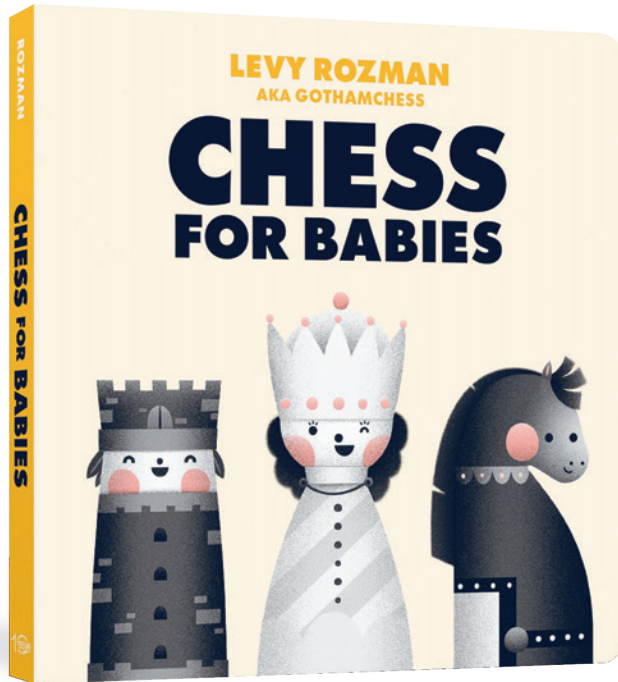

I Think There Is a Monster Under My Bed

In this laugh-out-loud picture book that tackles childhood fears with empathy and silliness, a young boy is convinced there's a monster under his bed. But when he tells his parents, they're more scared than he is! The over-the-top reactions of the adults force the child to be the one to eventually save the day.

Readers will giggle at the absurdity of the situation, yet this thought-provoking tale also demonstrates how easily fear can spread like wildfire when no one takes the time to uncover the truth (or look under the bed).

Chaos escalates with every page turn!

Emily Galvin Almanza is a former public defender and co-founder of Partners for Justice, a nonprofit creating a new collaborative model of public defense. This is her first middle grade novel.

Andromeda Diaz and the Reasonable Doubt

Andromeda Diaz knows a thing or two about fighting injustice. She's the daughter of two public defenders, after all. So when she hears that her classmate Benji Jones has been suspended for stealing, and that school officials are taking his case to court, she knows something isn't right.

Together with her best friend, Danny, Andromeda investigates, coming up with a theory for what might have happened. Because an innocent kid's future hangs in the balance . . .

Drawing from her experience as a public defender working with young people, Emily Galvin Almanza has written an exciting, page-turning mystery that's an empowering reminder to fight for justice, no matter how young you are.

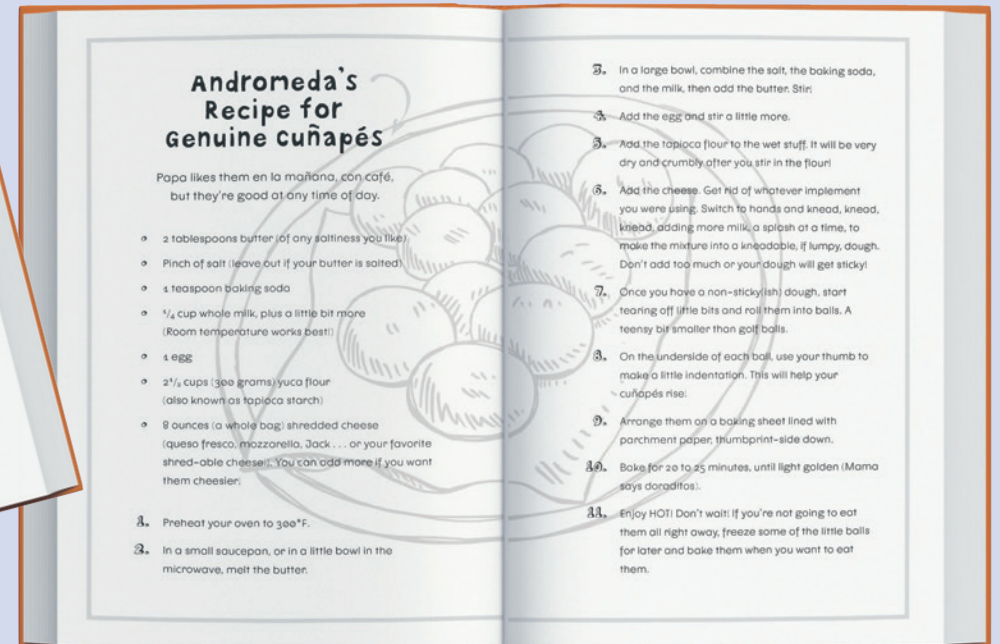

An excerpt

Danny told Andromeda what he knew.

"Benji hasn't been here since Monday," he began, re-adjusting his hoodie. "It's because he was suspended from school last Friday morning. I was on my way to Nurse Adesina's office to get my extra inhaler, and I saw him coming out of the main office with his parents. They looked upset. I kind of just hurried on, because I didn't want to make things worse by staring at them or something. But I definitely heard Principal Larsen say 'suspended,' I definitely heard him say something about a watch, and I also heard him say that Officer Duncan would be speaking with the local 'DA.' I have no idea what that last part means, though," Danny trailed off, staring at the floor. He didn't like any detail he couldn't place.

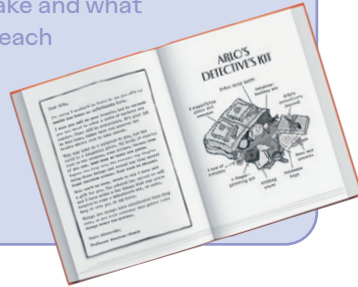

Andromeda was dumbfounded. She knew perfectly well that DA stood for District Attorney, the local criminal court prosecutor whose job it was to bring charges against people accused of crimes. She couldn't think of anything criminal someone as kind and reliable as Benji could do to get suspended."
